WRAPPING INSTRUCTIONS

The following method of freezer wrapping is called the DRUG STORE WRAP. This method will provide maximum protection for any items you freeze.

1. Tear off the necessary amount of paper and place the meat in the center of the paper, be sure that the coated side of the paper is on the inside of the package, facing the meat.
2. Fold both sides of the paper over the meat. To create a straight edge, make a one-inch fold on the freezer paper and crease.
3. Continue folding until the freezer paper is tight against the meat.
4. Fold the ends of the paper towards the meat squeezing air out until tight.
5. Fold the ends of the paper under the package towards each other.
6. Seal the package with freezer tape and label with the date and contents using a marker or stamp.

The following method of freezer wrapping is called the BUTCHER WRAP.

1. Tear off the necessary amount of paper and place the meat at one corner of the paper, be sure the coated side of the paper is on the inside of the package, facing the meat.
2. Make one roll toward the opposite corner. Keep the paper tight against the meat.
3. Roll one time, squeezing out as much air as possible.
4. Fold in the other side of the paper, squeezing air out as you do so. Roll tightly to the end of the freezer paper.
5. Seal the package with freezer tape and label with the date and contents using a marker or stamp.

NOTE: When placing wrapped items in the freezer, DO NOT stack them directly on top of each other. Spread them out as much as possible. Once they are frozen, they can be stacked multiple layers high.
